

Tau Kappa Epsilon

9/1/2014

Hey everyone! We're back from summer break and looking forward to a new semester. If you're interested in what some of us did over the summer, check out the public TKE Xi-Upsilon page on Facebook. Max Guerine put together "Tekes around the world," a collection of pictures of brothers during their summer escapades.

Also, I hope you all enjoy this newsletter already, but I'm always looking for ways to improve. For example, I've heard that past Histors' newsletters have included columns such as "TKE Mattress Updates" or something along those lines. I think that's hilarious but I'm not that creative, so if you have any ideas like this, let me know and I'll add them. Thanks!

Mud Tug

The annual tug-of-war tournament, held by Phi Psi and ZTA, was this month. TKE, along with Brockport sorority Theta Phi Chi, stepped up and put our strength to the test. The Thetas, who won the women's division last year, were not quite so lucky this year, but they still upstaged us. We would never be sore losers about an event like this, but let's just say it was some bullshit being matched up with the rugby team in the first round...well, that's behind us. We still had a great time and all of the money raised was donated to charity. Fear not, the team will all be hitting the gym and we'll be back next year.

Coming Up in October

Fall Rush

Matt DePalo led the chapter through Fall rush this year. We held video game night, dodgeball games, lawn sports, and other activities that attracted a lot of little freshmen. At the end of the two weeks, we gave bids out to 17 worthy gentlemen.

Unfortunately for us, Eric Pope from IFC had a little sand in his vagina this year and instantiated a new rule this year that all fraternities had to ask for bids to be signed for a certain date and not before. So, a bunch of other fraternities who broke this rule snatched up some of our biddies. In the end, we got back 7 signed bids.

If you want to come to educate some pledges, talk to Hegemon Kyle Zarnoch! We're looking forward to a good education program this semester.
